INSTRUCTIONS FOR MEDICAL EXAMINER

The standard for acceptance into the Navy ROTC College Program is the ability to fully participate in training activities. This includes strenuous physical exercise and activities which may occur in a hot and humid environment. Details of the minimum standards for the events in the NROTC Physical Readiness Test are listed on the reverse of this for. Defects that have the potential to result in illness or injury brought on by physical exercise should be identified. The examiner should list any condition(s) which could interfere with full and unrestricted participation. Conditions that will or are likely to require treatment, particularly unresolved injuries and recurrent illness must be listed. History of immunization should be verified to the satisfaction of the medical examiner.
