The FAMU Summer Band Camp gives musicians from all over the world the opportunity to learn the concepts and techniques used by the incomparable Marching “100” Band, taught by some of the nation’s greatest instructors.

"I had no idea what awaited me in that week. I had no idea that I would grow so much musically and play such advanced literature . . . after the grand finale performance on the last day of camp, there was one thing I knew for sure—that I would be attending Florida A&M University!"

- Jared Johnson, FAMU Saxophonist

"The students who attend our Summer Band Camp have a unique opportunity to learn and enjoy the art of music."

- Dr. Julian E. White, Director of Bands

"My older brother inspired me to attend FAMU, so I thought attending Band Camp would be a great way to test the waters to see if it was really what I wanted to do. Needless to say I ended up coming back for 4 years while gaining a deeper love and appreciation for not only the “100,” but music in general. “

- Brandon Cunningham, FAMU Band President