Regulation of Florida A&M University

6C3-2.027 Student Publications.

(1) Student publications are governed by the Student Publications Board which derives its authority from the University President and the Board of Regents (paragraph 6C-6.012(7)(a), F.A.C.). The membership of the Student Publication Board, its functions and responsibilities, and its policies and procedures are set forth in the Procedures Manual, in addition to specifying criteria for applicants for leadership positions in the publications governed by the Board. The University Yearbook, The Rattler, and the University Newspaper, the FAMUAN, are both governed by the Student Publications Board. Additional student publications may be governed by the Board as approved and directed by the University President.

(2) The Rattler, University Yearbook, is governed by the Student Publications Board with all related policies and procedures set forth in The Procedures Manual, including the specific purpose and functions of the yearbook, the role of the Student Publications Board, University administration, and advisor.

(3) The FAMUAN, University Newspaper, is governed by the Student Publications Board with all related policies and procedures set forth in The Procedures Manual, including the specific purpose and functions of the newspaper, the organizational structure of the newspaper, and the principles governing news and editorial writing.
