I. UNIVERSITY HISTORY, GOVERNANCE AND ORGANIZATION

A. HISTORICAL OVERVIEW AND GENERAL INFORMATION

Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University, founded on October 3, 1887, as the State Normal College for Colored Students, began classes with 15 students and two instructors. Its destiny -- to become an institution of higher learning, striving toward even greater heights of academic excellence is evident today as it is one of 11 institutions in Florida’s State University System, and excellence -“Excellence with Caring”- remains its goal.

FAMU can credit much of its present academic stature to the leadership of its distinguished presidents: Thomas DeSaille Tucker (1887-1901); Nathan B. Young (1901-1923); John Robert Edward Lee, Sr. (1924-1944); William H. Gray, Jr. (1944-1949); George W. Gore, Jr. (1950-1968); Benjamin L. Perry, Jr. (1968-1977); Walter L. Smith (1977-1985); Frederick S. Humphries (1985-2001); Fred Gainous (2002-2004); and its current president, James Ammons (2007- ) and acting presidents: W.H.A. Howard (1923-24); J.B. Bragg (1944); and H. Manning Efferson (1949-50); Henry Lewis III, interim president (2002); Castell Vaughn Bryant, interim president (2004-2007).

Leading the State Normal College through its infancy were two distinguished citizens and educators, Thomas DeSaille Tucker, an outstanding attorney from Pensacola who was selected as the college’s first president, and Thomas Van Rennasaler Gibbs, a state representative from Duval County who was Tucker’s top assistant. In 1891, the college received $7,500 under the Second Morrill Act for agricultural and mechanical arts education; thus, it became Florida’s Land Grant institution for African Americans. The college was moved from Copeland Street (now the site of Florida State University) to its present location, and its name was changed to the State Normal and Industrial College for Colored Students. It was at this new site that President Tucker initiated his plans for institutional growth and development.

In the 1900s, this young institution flourished under the leadership of Nathan B. Young. In 1905, management of the college was transferred from the Board of Education to the Board of Control. This event was significant because it officially designated the college as an institution of higher education. The name was changed in 1909 to Florida Agricultural and Mechanical College for Negroes (FAMC). The following year, with an enrollment of 317 students, the college awarded its first degrees. In spite of a setback caused by a tragic fire which destroyed Duval Hall (the main building which housed the library, administrative offices, cafeteria and other college agencies), progress was made when a gift of $10,000 was presented to the University by Andrew Carnegie for the erection of a new library facility. This facility held the distinction of being the only Carnegie Library located on an African-American land-grant college. President Young directed the growth of the college, with limited resources and expectations, to a four-year degree-granting institution, offering the Bachelor of Science degree in education, science, home economics, agriculture, and mechanical arts.

Under the administration of John Robert Edward Lee, Sr., FAMC acquired much of the physical and academic image it has today. Buildings were constructed; more land was purchased; more faculty was hired; courses were upgraded, and accreditation was received from several state agencies. By 1944, FAMC had constructed 48 buildings, accumulated 396 acres of land, and had 812 students and 122 staff members. In 1949, under the guidance of William H. Gray, Jr., expansion, along with reorganization, continued; the college obtained an Army ROTC unit, and student enrollment had grown to more than 2,000.

Perhaps the greatest achievement under the presidency of Dr. George W. Gore, Jr., was the elevation of the school to university status. In 1953, the college’s name was changed by legislative action from Florida Agricultural and Mechanical College to Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University (FAMU). Obtaining university status meant restructuring existing programs and designing new academic offerings to meet the demands of producing quality students at the professional and graduate levels. Between 1953 and 1968, the Schools of Pharmacy, Law, Graduate Studies, and Nursing were created.

During the years 1950-68, the University experienced its most rapid growth. Twenty-three buildings were erected, with construction and renovation costs totaling more than $14 million. These facilities included: the Dairy Barn, Faculty Duplexes, Law Wing of Coleman Library; Gibbs, Tucker, and Truth Halls; Agriculture and Home Economics Building (Perry Paige), Student Union Building, Demonstration School Building and Cafeteria; Health and Physical Education Building, Music and Fine Arts Complex, High School Gymnasium and Stadium. The hospital was completed and operative. The University’s staff was increased to more than 500. At this time, the four-quarter plan was implemented, the school became the first Negro institution to become a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and enrollment increased to more than 3,500.

With Dr. Benjamin L. Perry, Jr., at the helm, the 1970s brought further growth to FAMU. FAMU experienced a decade of rapid transition during an era when federal laws were demanding desegregated unitary systems in higher education. His administration is credited with the preservation of FAMU’s autonomy. In 1971, FAMU was recognized as a full partner in the nine-university-member, public higher education system of Florida. The program and academic areas within the institution were extended to include the African American Archives Research Center and Museum, established as a state repository for African American history and culture; the Division of Sponsored Research; the program in medical sciences, in conjunction with FSU and the University of Florida; the development of the School of Architecture; a Naval ROTC unit; establishment of the cooperative programs in agriculture; and a degree-granting program in Afro-American Studies. Enrollment at FAMU increased from 3,944 (1969) to 5,024 (1970). The University was reorganized into academic areas instead of departments. The physical plants were improved by the construction of the Women’s Complex (apartment type dormitory), Clifton Dyson Pharmacy Building, new poultry building and dairy cattle resting shed and renovation of University Commons, Coleman Library, Tucker Hall and the FAMU Hospital into the presently named, Foote-Hilyer Administration Center.

The 1980s served as a model for productive development at FAMU. Under the administration of Dr. Walter L. Smith, the University grew to eleven schools and colleges, and a division of graduate studies, research, and continuing education. In 1984, the University was granted the authority to offer its first Doctor of Philosophy degree, the Ph.D. in Pharmacology. The ‘80s also saw the expansion of the Gaither Athletic Center, which includes the construction of a new Women’s Athletic Complex equipped with a track, an Olympic pool, men’s and women’s weight training rooms, and softball and baseball fields. Bragg Memorial Stadium was renovated and expanded to provide seating for about 25,500 spectators, and a modern field house was erected. The old laundry was converted into the Industrial Education Classroom/Laboratory. New facilities were constructed to house the Schools of Allied Health Sciences, Architecture, Business and Industry, and Nursing. Construction and renovation projects amounted to more than $34 million. Under the leadership of Dr. Smith, the University launched the Centennial Celebration Fund for establishment of a university endowment.
In 1985, construction of a new corridor of history was begun as Dr. Frederick S. Humphries became the eighth president of Florida A&M University. Under his leadership, FAMU experienced significant growth and unsurpassed accomplishments. President Humphries had the distinction of presiding over the University’s Centennial Celebration: October 2, 1986-December 31, 1987. This commemorative event, which centered upon the theme, “A Legacy to Preserve-A Future to Design,” was initiated with the president’s inauguration, highlighted with many activities (lectures, concerts, convocations, etc.) and honors, and culminated with the burial of a time capsule.

Dr. Humphries’ unique administrative initiatives heightened FAMU’s awareness to high school students, parents, and other members of the public. Some of the achievements made during the Humphries’ administration include the following: FAMU received national recognition for record-breaking enrollment. In 1985, enrollment was 5,100. By 1992 these statistics showed total enrollment had nearly doubled at 9,551 and in the 1998/99 academic year it reached approximately 12,000.

In addition to increased enrollment, the University consistently ranked nationally among the top five colleges and universities for enrolling National Achievement finalists. Due to an aggressive and competitive campaign to attract more talented students, FAMU climbed steadily from fourth place in 1989 to first place (1992, 1995, and 1997), and second place (1993 and 1994), surpassing institutions such as Harvard, Yale, and Stanford. Black Issues in Higher Education; also cited FAMU, in 1999, for awarding more baccalaureates to African Americans than any institution in the nation.

FAMU successfully completed requirements for establishing eight Eminent Scholar Chairs through the State Major Gifts Program: the Warner-Lambert Chair in the College of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences; the Garth Reeves and the Knight Foundation Chairs in the School of Journalism and Graphic Communication; the Anheuser-Busch, Centennial and Financial Services Chairs in the School of Business and Industry; the Carrie Meek Chair in the College of Education and the Foster-Edmonds Chair in the College of Arts and Sciences.
At the 1989 Spring Commencement Exercises, the University awarded its first Ph.D. degree to Hyacinth Chi Akunne in the College of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences. The University presented the doctor of philosophy degree to Fred Foreman (FAMU/FSU College of Engineering) during the 1995 Spring Commencement Exercises thereby establishing a second discipline in which the PhD is awarded.

The FAMU Marching “100” Band, under the direction of Dr. William P. Foster, Director of Bands, was invited by the French government to participate in the Bastille Day Parade as the official representative from the United States. This event was held in celebration of the Bicentennial of the French Revolution. The Marching “100” continues to perfect its legacy of excellence, which has resulted in it being labeled as the “Best Marching Band in the Nation” by Sports Illustrated (August, 1992). The band received national recognition in January 1993, when it performed in the 52nd Inauguration Parade in Washington, D.C., by invitation of President-Elect William “Bill” Clinton. Most recently the Marching 100 performed at the 48th Annual Grammy Awards Show and at Super Bowl XL1, its fourth Super Bowl performance.

Tremendous efforts have been made to upgrade facilities and construct new buildings during the past decade. The completed projects include construction of the Benjamin L. Perry General Classroom and Science Research Building; expansion of the School of Business and Industry’s east and west wings; the FAMU/FSU College of Engineering; the new College of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences building; expansion of the School of Allied Health Sciences; a new Student Services Center; a 400-car parking garage; a 360-bed expansion at Palmetto Housing; remodeling and expansion of the Foster-Tanner Complex; and construction of the Frederick S. Humphries Science Research Center. Recently completed projects include the new School of Journalism and Graphic Communication’s building and the Campus Recreation Center. Projects scheduled for construction include the FAMU Developmental Research School (FAMU-DRS) and the Multipurpose Gymnasium and the renovation of College of Arts & Sciences’Jones Hall.

Most significantly, during the celebration of its 110th Anniversary, FAMU was selected as the 1997-98 College of the Year by TIME Magazine-Princeton Review. FAMU was selected as the winner from among six finalist including: DePaul University, Chicago; DePauw University, Greencastle, Indiana; the University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa; University of California, Los Angeles; Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut; and the University of California State System.
FAMU was the first African American institution in the country to receive this honor from this magazine.

In January 2002, FAMU Board of Trustees named Henry Lewis III, PharmD, Dean of the College of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences, interim president.

May 17, 2002, the Board of Trustees named Fred Gainous, Ed.D., an alumnus the ninth president of FAMU. Prior to his presidency, Dr. Gainous was the Chancellor of the State Community College System in Alabama.

On December 14, 2004, the Florida A&M University Board of Trustees named Castell Vaughn Bryant, Ed.D., interim president. She is a FAMU graduate and former president of Miami Dade College’s North Campus. Dr. Bryant is the first woman to lead the institution in its 117-year history. On July 2nd, 2007, Dr. James Ammons became FAMU’s 10th president with a vision to make FAMU a trailblazer in higher education.

For more than 119 years, Florida A&M University has served the citizens of the State of Florida and the nation through its provision of preeminent educational programs, programs which were the building blocks of a legacy of academic excellence with caring. FAMU, “Florida’s Opportunity University,” is committed to meeting the challenges and needs of future generations.

Assessment

The assessment program at FAMU promotes a culture of continuous improvement; an initiative that is an integral aspect of the University’s commitment to sustaining and enhancing academic quality and positive student experience.

The assessment activities permeate all levels of the University and target four primary areas: entry-level knowledge and skills, general education outcomes, program/divisional outcomes, and students, graduates and alumni satisfaction. These efforts span multiple institutional levels - from university-wide assessments to assessments conducted by individual academic programs and administrative and educational support service units. The Provost, who formally oversees the assessment program, instituted the Institutional level Assessment Committee (ILAC) to guide and monitor the assessment efforts and use of assessment results for improvement.

Assessment at FAMU serves three major purposes. The first purpose is program and service improvement aimed at making programs/units (academic majors, general education, certification programs, functional units etc.) more effective. The second purpose is for accountability aimed at demonstrating institutional responsiveness to external constituencies by ensuring that students demonstrate basic academic competencies and skills mandated by state and federal legislators. The third purpose is for institutional effectiveness aimed at meeting requirements of accrediting agencies.

D. THE UNITED FACULTY OF FLORIDA

The United Faculty of Florida is the certified collective bargaining agent for bargaining unit faculty. The UFF is charged with bargaining with FAMU over the wages, hours and terms and conditions of employment. Copies of the collective bargaining agreement may be secured at the Academic Affairs website and at www.FAMUFF.com.

II. FACULTY POLICIES

A. FACULTY CONDUCT CODE

The State of Florida can achieve its potential for greatness with an outstanding university system. Achieving this greatness dictates a strong and respected Board of Trustees, Board of Governors, administration, faculty, and staff. The Board of Governors reaffirms its determination to develop the State University System of Florida as group of universities of national distinction in their respective. The Board is dedicated to making these institutions preeminent centers of learning and leadership and dynamic forces in American progress. The Board asserts that the dissemination of knowledge, the search for truth, and the development of educated, free minds constitute the professional responsibilities of the faculties. These responsibilities must be maintained while each university executes its function of providing a democratic climate for the study and exchange of ideas.

The Board of Governors, as the legally constituted agency for policy making and supervision of the State Universities, believes that academic freedom and responsibility are essential to the full development of a true university and apply to teaching, research, and creativity. In the development of knowledge, research endeavors, and creative activities, a university faculty and student body must be free to cultivate a spirit of inquiry and scholarly criticism and to examine ideas in an atmosphere of freedom and confidence. A similar atmosphere is required for university teaching. Consistent with the exercise of academic responsibility, a teacher must have freedom in the classroom in discussing his/her subject. The university student must likewise have the opportunity to study a full spectrum of ideas, opinions, and beliefs, so that he/she may acquire maturity for analysis and judgment. Objective and skillful exposition of such matters is the duty of every teacher.

The established policy of the Board of Governors shall continue to be that the faculty member must fulfill his/her responsibility to society and to his profession by manifesting academic competence, scholarly discretion, and good citizenship. The university teacher is a citizen, a member of a learned profession, and an academic officer of an educational institution. He/she should be constantly mindful that these roles may be inseparable in the public view, and he/she should, therefore, at all times exercise appropriate restraint and good judgment.

The Board of Governors desires that members of all faculties exercise the utmost ingenuity and creativity in order to bring to students the maximum benefits of enlightened education. The board requires that such exercise be tempered with responsibility and due regard for sound educational principles.

Regarding morals and influence, it has long been the established policy of the Board of Governors that institutions shall select faculty members of good moral character and of the highest educational background.

In order to assure a wholesome educational environment within the State Universities of Florida, the Board of Governors has adopted the following policies for the guidance of the universities:

B. NON-DISCRIMINATION POLICY

Florida A&M shall not discriminate against any faculty member based upon race, color, sex, sexual orientation, religious creed, ethnic origin, national origin, ancestry age, veteran status, medical condition, disability, political opinions or affiliation, marital status, or any combination thereof, nor shall the University abridge any rights of faculty related to union activity granted under Chapter 447, Florida Statutes, including but not limited to the right to assist or to refrain from assisting the UFF. The University protects and safeguards the rights and opportunities of faculty members to work in an environment free from any form of discrimination or harassment and recognizes its obligations under federal and State laws, rules, and regulations prohibiting discrimination/ or harassment.

Faculty shall also be protected from harassment on the basis of race, color, sex, sexual orientation, religious creed, ethnic origin, national origin, ancestry, age, veteran status, medical condition, disability, political opinions or affiliation, marital status, or any combination thereof. Such harassment shall be defined as occurring when the workplace is permeated with discriminatory intimidation, ridicule, and insult that are sufficiently severe or pervasive to alter the conditions of the victim’s employment and create an abusive working environment. Personnel decisions shall be based on job-related criteria and performance.

C. ETHICAL CONDUCT OF THE UNIVERSITY COMMUNITY

The University acknowledges a concern for values and ethics that are important to the whole educational experience. A faculty member is expected to show an awareness that membership in the academic profession carries with it special responsibilities. The following responsibilities of faculty members are taken from the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) Statement on Professional Ethics, with slight modifications.

The professor, guided by a deep conviction of the worth and dignity of the advancement of knowledge, recognizes the special responsibilities of the profession. The professor’s primary responsibility to his or her subject is to seek and to state the truth as he or she sees it. To this end, the professor devotes energies to developing and improving scholarly competence. The professor accepts the obligation to exercise critical self-discipline and judgment in using, extending and transmitting knowledge. The professor must never seriously hamper or compromise freedom of inquiry.

As an instructor, the professor encourages the free pursuit of learning in students. The professor holds before him/her the best scholarly standards of his or her discipline. The professor demonstrates respect for the student as an individual and adheres to the proper role of intellectual guide and counselor. The professor makes every reasonable effort to foster honest academic conduct and to assure that the evaluation of students reflects their true merit. The professor respects the confidential nature of the relationship between professor and student. The professor avoids any exploitation of students for private advantage and acknowledges significant assistance from them. The professor protects academic freedom.
As a colleague, the professor has obligations that derive from common membership in the community of scholars. The professor respects and defends the free inquiry of associates. In the exchange of criticism and ideas, the professor shows due respect for the opinions of others. The professor acknowledges academic debts and strives to be objective in the professional judgment of colleagues. The professor accepts his or her share of faculty responsibilities for the governance of the institution.

As a member of an institution, the professor seeks above all to be an effective teacher and scholar. Although the professor observes the stated regulations of the institution, provided they do not contravene academic freedom, the professor maintains the right to criticize and seek revision. The professor determines the amount and character of his or her work performed outside the institution (the amount of work is governed by the University policy), with due regard to his or her paramount institutional responsibilities. When considering the interruption or termination of employment, the professor recognizes the effect of this decision upon the program of the institution and gives due notice of his or her intentions.

As a member of the community, the professor has the rights and obligations of any citizen. The professor measures the urgency of these obligations in light of responsibilities to his or her subject, to students, to the profession and to the institution. The professor, when speaking or acting as a private person, should avoid creating the impression that he or she speaks or acts for the college or University. As a citizen engaged in a profession that depends upon freedom for its health and integrity, the professor has a particular obligation to promote conditions of free inquiry and to further public understanding of academic freedom.

D. CONSENSUAL RELATIONSHIPS.

1. In General

(a) Consensual sexual relationships between supervisors and employee, faculty-student, employee-student, do not violate laws prohibiting sex-based discrimination. However, such relationships are a concern because of the significant risk, ethical and administrative problems that can be posed when there is an institutional power difference between the parties involved, as between a supervisor and employee, employee and student, faculty and student, senior faculty and junior faculty, mentor and trainee, coach and athlete or academic advisor or counselor and advisee or counselee, and the individuals who supervise the day-today living environment and student residents. Because of the conflict or the potential for conflict of interest, exploitation, favoritism, and bias, such relationships may undermine the real or perceived integrity of the supervision, education and evaluation provided. They can lead to a complaint of sexual harassment when the student or employee feels that she or he has been exploited; thus being less consensual than the individual whose position confers power or authority believes. As a matter of sound judgment and professional ethics, all employees have a responsibility to avoid any apparent or actual conflict of interest between their professional responsibilities and personal relationships with students or other employees.

(b) As to students, the integrity of the teacher-student relationship is the foundation of the University’s educational mission. This relationship vests considerable trust in the teacher, who, in turn, bears authority and accountability as a mentor, educator and evaluator. The unequal institutional power inherent in this relationship heightens the vulnerability of the student and the potential for coercion. The pedagogical relationship between teacher and student must be protected from influences or activities that can interfere with learning consistent with the goals and ideals of the University. Consequently, the University prohibits a sexual or romantic relationship between a teacher and student, even where consensual, if the faculty member has direct supervisory or evaluative responsibilities over the student.

(c) Likewise, the University prohibits sexual or romantic relationships between employees and students and between supervisors and their employees.

(d) Through this policy, Florida A & M University asserts its right to protect the integrity of its operations from conflicts of interest, disruptions in its academic and employment environments that can arise from consensual sexual activity involving members of the University community, and to protect persons from the kind of injury that either a subordinate or superior party to such a relationship can suffer. Most of all, this policy seeks to ensure that each member of the Florida A & M University community is treated with dignity and without regard to any factors that are not relevant to the person’s work.

(e) For such relationships, recusal is required, the recusing party must also notify his or her supervisor, department chair or dean, so that such chair, dean or supervisor can exercise his or her responsibility to evaluate the adequacy of the alternative supervisory or evaluative arrangements to be put in place.

2. A failure to comply with the recusal and notification requirements is a violation of this policy, and therefore grounds for discipline commensurate with the severity of the offense, up to and including termination of employment.

3. Non-consensual situations or sexual harassment are covered under the University’s policy on Sexual Harassment, as provided in Regulation 10.103.

E. FACULTY ASSIGNMENT

The University shall exercise its authority to determine the standards, qualifications, and criteria, so as to fill each appointment vacancy with the best possible candidates. Appointment vacancies shall be advertised and all the specific requirements of Article 8 of the FAMU/UFF Collective Bargaining Agreement shall be followed prior to making the decision to hire a candidate to fill a vacancy. In regards to faculty assignments, a faculty member shall be given assignments that would enhance the faculty member’s opportunities to fulfill applicable criteria for tenure, promotion, and merit salary increases, or, if applicable, fixed multi-year appointments, and merit salary increases. In making assignments, the University shall also be guided by the following considerations:

(1) The needs of the program or department

(2) The faculty member’s qualifications and experiences, including professional growth and development and preferences;
(3) The character of the teaching, research, and service assignments;

(4) The time and material support needed to properly complete the assigned task(s);

(5) The relative percentage of effort allocated in any assignment category (teaching, research, service) in relation to the task(s) that need to be performed; and

(6) The reasonable opportunity to fulfill applicable criteria for tenure, promotion, and merit salary increases, or, fixed multi-year appointments and merit salary increases.

Each employee shall be apprised in writing, at the beginning of the employment period and at the beginning of each semester of employment, thereafter, of the duties and responsibilities in teaching, research and other creative activities, services, and of any other specific duties and responsibilities assigned for that semester. A faculty member, if he/she wishes, will be granted, upon written request, a conference with the person responsible for making the assignment to express concerns regarding the assignment.

The period of an instructional assignment during an academic year shall not exceed an average of seventy-five (75) days per semester and the period for testing, advisement, and other scheduled assignments shall not exceed an average of ten (10) days per semester. Within each semester, activities referred to above shall be scheduled during contiguous weeks with the exception of spring break. (For additional information see Article 8, UFF Collective Bargaining Agreement.)

F. FACULTY OVERLOADS
Overload shall be defined as any instructional duties in an extension or continuing education activity in excess of a full appointment. Available overload appointments shall be offered equitably and as appropriate to qualified faculty member in sufficient time to allow voluntary acceptance or rejection.

G. SUMMER INSTRUCTIONAL ASSIGNMENT

The summer instructional assignment, like that for the academic year, includes the normal activities related to such an assignment as defined by the department and the nature of the course, such as course preparation, minor curriculum development with respect to the course in question, lectures, evaluation of student efforts, and consultations and conferences with students. When a summer instructional appointment immediately follows the academic year appointment, the faculty member may be assigned, if necessary, reasonable noninstructional duties related to the summer instructional appointment prior to the conclusion of the academic year appointment.

Supplemental summer appointments will be offered equitably and as appropriate contingent upon budgetary restrictions and student demands. Salary for a supplemental appointment shall be computed in accordance with the formula outlined in the Collective Bargaining Agreement.

Faculty on twelve-month appointments shall not be assigned duties that preclude them from taking all or a portion of their accrued annual leave in the two weeks immediately preceding the beginning of the Fall term or in the period immediately following the Spring term.

H. ACADEMIC ADVISEMENT

Academic advising connotes the providing of educationally related information and guidance to students confronted with choices and alternative paths in their education.
Although there are several models for advisement programs, the most widely accepted model involves the use of faculty as academic advisors. Advising, as it is defined in the current literature, is a much broader concept. Traditionally, faculty-advising function have involved maintaining student records, and describing the requirements of the academic major. From this broader perspective, advisors must be able to establish and to maintain a relationship with advisees that help them "conceptualize their situation and future possibilities." Ordinarily, the following considerations guide persons involved in advising.

- Advising has a major impact on students' satisfaction with their educational programs and, in turn, on their perception of fit with the institution.

- Institutional commitment to advising must be demonstrated in terms of human, fiscal, and physical resources.

- Effective advising presupposes the existence of a well-articulated set of principles and guidelines.

- The components and criteria of an effective advising system can be isolated.

- The skills and insights of good academic advising can be developed.

- The appointment of one individual or office to coordinate the total advising system will prevent fragmentation among units and promote desirable outcomes.

I. FACULTY PROMOTION

(1) Faculty Promotion – Faculty promotion is the appointment to a higher academic or equivalent rank or class and may also be combined with an application for tenure.

(2) Faculty Promotion Criteria – The criteria shall include meeting the minimum qualifications for appointment to the rank or position. In addition, promotion shall be justified by the faculty employee’s proven increased skills in performance of duties, increased knowledge in the field of specialty, potential for professional growth and increased recognition of the faculty member as an authority in his/her field.
a. Additional criteria may be established by each college/school.

b. Assistant professors must serve three (3) years in rank to be eligible to apply for associate professor. Associate professors must serve five (5) years in rank to be eligible to apply for full professor.

c. Candidates must meet the minimum number of publications required by their respective Colleges, Schools or Institute for tenure and/or promotion. For promotion to full professor, these publications must be performed during the tenure of the faculty member as an associate professor.

d. Promotion criteria shall be available in the department/unit office and/or the college/school level.

(3) Beginning with their second year of employment, eligible faculty employees may annually request to be apprised of their progress toward promotion.

(4) Applications for promotion shall be submitted to the University and reviewed in accordance with the tenure and promotion schedule provided by the Provost.

(5) The promotion review process shall include the following steps:

1. A recommendation from the employee’s supervisor;

2. A poll by confidential ballot of the faculty holding that rank or higher in the department or unit;

3. A poll by confidential ballot and recommendation from the college/school/institute tenure and promotion committee;

4. Recommendation from the dean/director of the college/school or institute;

5. A poll by confidential ballot and recommendation from the university tenure and promotion committee
6. Recommendation from the provost

7. Approval by the President

(6) Promotion applicants shall be notified of the recommendations from the supervisor, department/division, college/school/institute, dean, and university committee.

(7) The President has the final authority to approve or deny promotions.

J. FACULTY TENURE

(1) Tenure may be granted to faculty employees as herein provided. This regulation is supplemented by the Board of Trustees/United Faculty of Florida (BOT/UFF) Collective Bargaining Agreement for those employees who are members of the faculty collective bargaining unit.

(2) Definition of Tenure.

(a) Preamble – Institutions of higher education exist for the common good. The common good depends upon the unfettered search for truth and its free exposition. Academic freedom and tenure exist in order that society may have the benefit of honest judgment and independent criticism. The meaning of tenure in the academic community in the United States is simply a guarantee of annual reappointment for faculty employees until voluntary resignation, retirement, removal for just cause, or layoff in accordance with standards specified by Regulation 10.113, BOT/UFF Collective Bargaining Agreement, and standards as outlined in this chapter. Tenure assures the faculty employee security of employment and immunity from reprisals or threats due to an intellectual position or belief which may be unpopular. Tenure shall be in an academic department/division or other appropriate organizational unit.
(b) Criteria for Tenure – The criteria for faculty tenure shall be provided to all tenure-earning faculty, upon hire. Tenure criteria shall require evidence of highly competent teaching and research and other scholarly/creative activities, services, and contributions to the University and to society. Faculty employees considered for tenure normally shall hold the terminal degree in the faculty employee’s teaching discipline or a closely related discipline. Criteria shall be established by the college/school or institute. Each tenure-earning employee shall be apprised in writing once each year of his/her progress toward tenure. Additionally, a third year review shall include an evaluation by the chair, dean and faculty (as identified by the college/school/institute). The tenure decision shall take into account the annual performance evaluations, the third year review and the needs of the department/unit, college/school/institute and university. The following factors may be considered:

1. professional experiences;

2. work experiences;

3. demonstrated contributions to the teaching discipline;

4. technical and performance competencies;

5. records of publications: Candidates must meet the minimum number of publications required by their respective Colleges, Schools or Institute for tenure. For those publications having four or more authors, the candidate must present a letter indicating their contribution to the publication;

6. certifications; and

7. exceptional scholarly/creative activities.
Nomination of a faculty employee for tenure shall signify that the President is satisfied that the candidate will continue to make significant professional contributions to the academic unit, the University, and to society.

(c) Tenure in the University – A faculty employee who has been granted tenure by the BOT shall have the status of permanent member of the faculty and be in the continuing employment of the University until he or she:

1. Resigns;
2. Retires;
3. Is dismissed for just cause under the provision of University rules or the BOT/UFF Collective Bargaining Agreement; or
4. Is discontinued pursuant to the layoff provisions in the University’s regulations, and the BOT/UFF Collective Bargaining Agreement.

(3) Tenure-earning Appointments.

(a) Tenure earning faculty appointments to the ranks of assistant professor, associate professor, and professor do not include the appointment status modifiers of joint, acting, adjunct, provisional, visiting, research, clinical, courtesy, honorary affiliate or phased retirement. Appointments which include the appointment status modifiers multi-year, joint, provisional, visiting, research, clinical or affiliate may or may not earn time toward tenure, as determined by the President or President’s designee at the time of appointment to a tenure earning position. Employees with appointment status modifiers of joint, provisional, visiting, research, clinical or affiliate will be notified in writing at the time of appointment of the tenure-earning status of the position. In the event, the position is not designated as a tenure earning position, the time in the non-tenure earning position may be counted toward tenure-earning eligibility upon being appointed to a tenure-earning position.

(b) Upon hire, the college, school or institute shall provide tenure criteria to eligible faculty employees.
(c) If a Faculty employee is initially appointed to the rank of instructor or to a position including an appointment status modifier determined by the University not to be tenure-earning, and is subsequently appointed to a tenure-earning position, all or a portion of the Faculty employee’s prior service in such a non-tenure-earning position may be counted toward time required for tenure, provided the President or President’s designee specifically agrees in writing to credit such service.

(4) Eligibility for Tenure Nomination.

(a) Only those Faculty employees serving in tenure-earning positions as described in paragraph (3)(a), above, are eligible to be recommended for tenure at the University. Tenure shall not extend to administrative appointments in the general faculty or administrative and professional classification plans.

(b) Except for Faculty employees who by virtue of prior service credited at the time of their appointment, are eligible for consideration earlier, a decision whether to nominate a Faculty employee for tenure shall normally be made during the sixth year of continuous full-time service, or equivalent part-time service, in a tenure-earning position. The word “normally” as used in this rule takes cognizance of the fact that an employee may satisfy the requirements for tenure in his/her department or equivalent unit after 4 or 5 years of continuous full-time service, or equivalent part-time service. It also implies that an employee’s tenure earning eligibility may be deferred for a certain period. An employee’s written request for early tenure consideration is subject to the University’s written agreement. Continuous employment for the purpose of tenure-earning eligibility consideration for full-time service shall mean employment during at least 39 weeks of any 12-month period. Continuous employment for the purpose of tenure-earning eligibility consideration for part-time service shall mean employment during at least one semester of any 12-month period. Part-time service of an employee employed at least one full semester in any 12-month period shall be accumulated. For example, two semesters of half-time service shall be considered one-half year of service for purposes of tenure eligibility.

(c) The number of years of previous tenure-earning service at other institutions of higher education which the President or President’s designee may agree to approve as credit toward a Faculty employee’s eligibility time for tenure shall be agreed upon in writing at the time of employment, subject to the following restrictions: the President or President’s designee may approve credit for not more than two years of tenure-earning service for a Faculty employee hired as an assistant professor, not more than three years for a Faculty employee hired as an associate professor, and not more than four years for a Faculty employee hired as a professor.

(d) Time spent by a Faculty employee under joint appointment or exchange within or without the SUS on a duly established personnel exchange program of the University or on a special assignment for the benefit of the University or for the SUS shall be counted toward the time for fulfillment of eligibility for tenure. In all such cases, the faculty employee shall be so informed in writing at the time leave is granted.

(e) Time spent on uncompensated leave shall not be credited as time earned toward tenure, except by agreement of the Faculty employee and the President or President’s designee. In deciding whether to credit uncompensated leave toward tenure eligibility, the President or President’s designee shall consider the relevance of the employees activity while on such leave to the employee’s professional development and to the employee’s field of employment, the benefits, if any, which accrue to the University by virtue of placing the employee on such leave, and other appropriate factors. Time spent on compensated leave shall be credited as time earned toward tenure, unless the Faculty employee and the President or President’s designee agree in writing that such leave is not to be credited.

(5) Granting of Tenure.

(a) By the end of six years of continuous full-time, or equivalent part-time service in a tenure-earning position in the University, a Faculty employee shall be nominated for tenure or given notice that further employment will not be offered, in the affected position with reason(s) why the employee was not nominated for tenure.

(b) Applications for tenure are normally submitted to the University at the beginning of the faculty employee’s sixth tenure-earning year, in accordance with the Tenure and Promotion Schedule provided by the Provost.

(c) The tenure review process shall include the following steps:
1. A recommendation from the employee’s supervisor

2. A poll by secret ballot and recommendation of the tenured members of the department or unit.

3. A poll by secret ballot and recommendation from the college/school/institute tenure and promotion committee

4. Recommendation from the dean/director of the college/school or institute

5. A poll by secret ballot and recommendation from the University Tenure and Promotion Committee

6. Recommendation from the Provost

7. Nomination by the President

8. Approval of tenure by the Board of Trustees

(d) Tenure applicants shall be notified of the recommendations from the supervisor, department/unit, college/school/institute, dean, and university committee. Any recommendation for disapproval shall include the reason for the negative recommendation.

(e) Upon nomination by the President and approval by the BOT, tenure shall be granted. The decision shall normally be made at the May Board meeting, but no later than the following meeting. The effective date of tenure shall be the date of approval by the BOT. Each nomination for tenure shall be acted upon with careful consideration being given to the qualifications of the faculty employee, including evaluation by colleagues and the immediate supervisor. In making judgments pertaining to the decision to award tenure, evaluation of research and other creative activities by qualified scholars, in pertinent disciplines, both within and outside the University should be included. When one of the duties of the faculty employee being nominated is teaching, the quality of the faculty employee’s teaching shall be gauged by the standards outlined in this regulation, the BOT/UFF Collective Bargaining Agreement, where applicable, as well as the regulation which governs faculty evaluation and the approved criteria of the appropriate academic department/unit.
(f) With sufficient justification, an employee may be nominated by the President and approved by the BOT for tenure at the time of initial appointment or prior to the fifth year of tenure earning service. The President or President’s designee shall consider the recommendation of the department or equivalent unit prior to making his/her tenure nomination.

(6) Transfer of Tenure – A tenured faculty member may seek a transfer with tenure through the normal hiring process within the University to a vacant position in the same or similar discipline. The President or Provost may approve the transfer at her or his discretion and may consider any discrepancies in the tenure criteria in approving the transfer. Services and Programs

Lost and Found. The Police Department serves as central clearance for lost and found items. The Police Department should be contacted to report lost items, or to turn in a found property. Items are kept for 30 days. After that time, items that remain unclaimed will be disposed of in compliance with university policies. To retrieve found property, contact “Lost and Found” at the University Police Department, Monday through Friday, between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30PM.

S.A.F.E. Team (Students Available For Escort Team). During nighttime hours, a student-run escort service is available upon request to aid in safe movement between various locations on campus (i.e., classroom buildings, labs, libraries, parking lots, and residence halls). SAFE Team members are students, who are responsible for all operational aspects of providing escort services – from recruiting other students to become a part of the team to managing those teams. The University Police Department has oversight responsibility. Call 850-599-3795 or 850-599-3752 to request an escort.

Personal Safety. Police Officers provide personal safety information to new students and employees at orientation and during seminars conducted by the University Housing Office. Security surveys or other presentations are offered upon request to any group on campus. Presentations include available pamphlets and prevention tips.

Operation Identification. This program is based on the idea that marked items are more difficult to dispose of if stolen. Property is engraved with the owner’s identification marking for detection purposes. This service is offered by the University Police Department at no charge to participants. Contact the Police Department (850-599-3256) or University Housing Office (850-599-3651) to make a request for engraving services.
Rape and Aggressive Defense Training

To help foster confidence among university women, the Police Department offers RAD training, a wide-ranging course that begins with awareness, prevention, risk reduction and avoidance. After conceptualization, the RAD training moves to hands-on defense tactics. RAD courses are taught by certified instructors, and are offered at most major colleges and universities. Included in the training is a workbook and reference manual. The RAD system is based on the principle that a spontaneous violent attack will stimulate a natural desire to resist on the victim’s part. RAD training shows women how to take an active and effective role in their own self-defense as well as enhance their psychological well-being.

Lost and Found

The University provides lost and found services to faculty, staff, and students. All lost or found items should be reported to the University Police Department located on Wahnish Way. The reported items are labeled as lost or found and entered on the FCIC Terminal for lost/found items, a nationwide system, if the item is of value. A check is also conducted on all found items to determine if stolen. After all items have been labeled and checked, they are placed in the evidence room of the University Police Department.

D. POSTAL SERVICE

The University Post Office provides daily outgoing and incoming mail services for official university business only. Couriers pick up and deliver mail Monday-Friday to each department and twice daily to designated areas. All pick-up mail must be accompanied by the approved Mailing Instruction Form, which must bear the original signature of the respective department head or designee. The use of interdepartmental envelopes is highly recommended for on-campus mail delivery.

Envelopes for mail delivery to State Government offices downtown must be typed (printed) and properly addressed. All outgoing mail must reflect the department’s name and building of the sender. B. CONFIDENTIALITY OF STUDENT RECORDS

A student’s personal record is considered confidential, and the contents will not be disclosed without conforming to the Buckley Amendment, which requires the student’s permission.
